

Andrew Haslam, winner of multiple awards for educational books, guided the development of these books. Through creation of original landscape models, practical experiments, and easy projects, kids are encouraged to explore basic geographic principals.

Would making a thermometer, creating a water cycle, or testing soil pH catch the hard-to-get attention of a child you know? If the answer is yes, this is the hard-to-find book series they'll truly love.

Clear instructions for experiments and model-making projects guarantee that this is the catalyst gifted kids need for hours and hours of fun.

This four volume set includes:

- Maps
- Oceans
- Rivers
- Weather

Make It Work Geography

Children fascinated by the Earth and geography finally have a set of books that lets their imaginations soar!

If earthquakes and hurricanes, rivers and mountains, and the ways of the world interest your child, then this is the series for him or her.
